

EARLY INTERVENTION OF
TODDLER AND INFANT – ROLE
OF PARENTS AND CAREGIVERS

- Early intervention in the field of disability means of offering guidance, support and implementation of intervention plans in very young infants and toddlers who are at risk or have developmental delayed.
- Even though early intervention services are being given by trained professionals and expertise but parents have also equal importance in this process.

- People with developmental disabilities are diverse group of population, so there is no one-size-fits-all approaches.
- The recommendations are given below can help parents/caregivers in this corona crisis and lockdown situation or child in home condition.
- Each time before handling child wash your hands with soap and water at least 20 seconds, keep away and avoid touching other who are sick in home.

Care your baby by positioning

Make the child sit comfortable and keeps hand free for play with toys

Against a wall, with large pillows around the child

- Placed the child in hammock with head forward to feel comfortable

Placed the child in astride position if crosses his legs

Carrying the baby

- If child is stiff and crossing his legs

- If a child is floppy

Communication

- Interact with child when ever get time

Facilitate head holding

Facilitate rolling

- Help the child to roll by holding his hand over head

Facilitate creeping and crawling

Bend one leg forward and encourage child to pull forward with arms

Towel can be used to support the child

Safety is the priority during standing

Make the child Stand with support and ensured child's knee should be straight

Standing against wall and reach out activity to develop standing balance and encourage walking

Activities of daily living

- Personal hygiene

Caring the baby

Caring the baby during feeding and drinking

THANK YOU